Is there a guide to do the n249 bypass on the aum engine? I've found loads of guides for other engines but there always a comment about it being a bit different on the aum. Also I've read about using some sort of resister so that everything can be removed after the bypass. A before and after pic would be good to show what's been changed

I spent a lot of time on this, I hope it will be helpful. This is the guide I put together to be used in conjunction with a kit I put together. I did the install on both a AWP and AWD motor. There are slight variations in the vac lines, but the instructions indicate which motor is in the picture. If I am missing anything, please let me know.

So I wanted to post up a comprehensive N249 delete post, because while there are tons of threads and comments about it, there does not seem to be a simple, step-by-step thread for this. If there is, well, here is another for the TT crowd. This is specifically for a 225, but I'm sure the 180 guys will be able to use most or all of this info.
